Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 18-27 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-4 of U.S. Patent No. 6,604,537. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a pair of foldable panels removably attached at adjacent edges thereof via stitching and sleeves.

Claims 18-22 and 24-26 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1, 2, 10, 11, 13, 15, 17-19, 21, 23 and 24 of U.S. Patent No. 6,209,557. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a pair of foldable panels removably attached at adjacent edges thereof via sleeves.

Claims 18, 20-22, 24 and 25 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1, 3, and 6-8 of U.S. Patent No. 6,155,281. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a pair of foldable panels removably attached at adjacent edges thereof.

Claims 18-22 and 24-26 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-3, 8 and 12 of U.S. Patent No. 5,778,915. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a pair of foldable panels removably attached at adjacent edges thereof via sleeves.

Claims 18-22 and 24-26 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-5 and 9-12 of U.S. Patent No. 5,579,799. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a pair of foldable panels removably attached at adjacent edges thereof via sleeves.

Claims 18, 20-25 and 27 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-3, 5, 6 and 14 of U.S. Patent No. 6,360,761. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a pair of foldable panels removably attached at adjacent edges thereof via stitching.

Claims 18-22 and 24-26 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1, 2 and 5 of U.S. Patent No. 5,560,385. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a pair of foldable panels removably attached at adjacent edges thereof via sleeves.

Claims 18, 20-22, 24 and 25 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1, 4 and 6 of U.S. Patent No. 6,461,257. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the instant invention and patent teach a pair of foldable panels removably attached at adjacent edges thereof.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 18, 19, 21, 22 and 24-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Foster. Foster teaches a collapsible structure (Figs. 1 and 2) comprised of a side member (upstanding members 22,23) and base member (horizontal members 22,23), each including a foldable frame member and having fabric there over. The side and bottom members being hingedly attached at their bottom/side respectively via sleeves (33) and fold on top of each other. Note: limitations found in "for"/intended use statements having been given no weight in the claims. Also, connected features always start out separate and can always be separated.

Claims 18-22 and 24-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Springer. Springer teaches a collapsible structure (Fig. 3) comprised of a side member (14) and base member (16), each including a foldable frame member (32,34) and having fabric there over. The side and bottom members being hingedly attached at their bottom/side respectively via sleeves (36) and fold on top of each other. Note: limitations found in "for"/intended use statements having been given no weight in the claims. Also, connected features always start out separate and can always be separated.

Claims 18-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Norman. Norman teaches a collapsible structure (Fig. 1; laying one member 102 on the floor) comprised of a side member (102) and base member (102 member on floor), each including a foldable frame member and having fabric there over. The side and bottom members being hingedly attached at their bottom/side respectively via sleeves and stitching (see Fig. 8) and fold on top of each other. Note: limitations found in "for"/intended use statements having been given no weight in the claims. Also, connected features always start out separate and can always be separated.
